

BOYCOTT

A Historical-Fiction TV Miniseries

Inspired by True Events | 6 One-Hour Episodes

Historical research reveals the never-before-recognized, but now unmasked, direct connection between the 1902 Kosher Beef Boycott initiated by Fanny Levy and Sarah Edelson, and the dramatic impact their activities had on the nation, at the time, and for generations to come.

- ✔ Greatly inspired Female Social Activism in the Country.
- ✔ Changed the Course of U.S. History.
- ✔ Influenced the policies of the Presidential Administration of Theodore Roosevelt.
- ✔ Instigated Federal Laws and Regulations that has Protected Americans for more than 100 years.
- ✔ Triggers investigative journalism "muckraking" by journalists into the meat-packing industry.
- ✔ Impacted American Literature in both fiction and non-fiction arenas based on meat packing.

"Boycott": Series Tag Line

They wanted fair food prices to feed their families.
They got a battle that changed the country and made history.